PROFILE

I consider myself an honest person. If there's anything that isn't working or could be improved, I will look for the right way and time to communicate my views in hopes of a better understanding. This also comes hand in hand with empathy, since I believe the way things are communicated need a level of sympathy so it comes across in a much better way. I also value integrity, positivity and passion. When it comes to personality, I would describe myself as a relaxed type of person. It might take a bit until I feel comfortable around new people, but once I get there my personality comes into bloom.
